

JEWRY IN GERMANY

By Emmanuel Boniface

CHAPTER I

Jewish Influence

In 1871, Jews were 1% of Germany's en masse. However, this decreased to 0.95% in 1910. In 1908-1911, 36% of Germany's Jews were businessmen & 21.7% were millionaires. 31% of Families that owned more than 50m marks were Jewish Families. In 1925, 16% of Jews were Physicians, 15% of Jews were dentists, & 25% of Jews were employed within the field of lawyering. In 1928, 80% of Jews held leading positions in Berlin's stock exchange. In 1930, 43% of private bankers were Jewish, & 75% of Playwrights were Jewish. In 1931, 15 Jewish bankers established 718 banking directorates, & 50-50.4% of theatre directors were Jewish. Moreover, Berlin's lawyers were an estimated 3,450 in total while Jews compromised 1,925 spots. In Breslau, lawyers were an estimated 298 in total, & 192 lawyers in Breslau were Jewish. In Frankfurt, Frankfurt's lawyers were an estimated 659, & 432 lawyers were Jewish. In Berlin, 52% of doctors were Jewish, while in most towns the average was 30%. In 1933, 2.4% of musicians were Jewish.

CHAPTER II

Dissolution of German Jewry

Once The NSDAP was appointed with political power in 1933, The 25 Point Programme of The NSDAP was implemented; designed for diminishment of Germany's economic upheaval. The NSDAP's 25 Points also contained policies in which it doesn't tolerate immigration; but only tolerated foreigners as guests, although not in superfluity. However, Jews were even excluded from being guests; in which it will be discussed furthermore in this document. The 25 Point's Policies against Jewish influence ultimately led to their deprivation of their influence; wholly within Business & Government, as The NSDAP was against Jewry. It's also important to note that 503,720 (0.8%) Jews were residing within Germany during 1931-1933. This decreased to either 100,000 or 365,000 by the end of 1937, due to emigration and natural decrease. The cause of Jewish emigration was chiefly due to National Socialists & Zionists wanting Jews departing from Germany, Jews were thus deported to what would be the future Israel - Palestine.

On the 1st of April, 1933, Jewish businesses were boycotted under the decree of The NSDAP. On the 7th of April 1933, The Law for The Restoration of Professional Civil Service was passed; consequently forbidding Jewish employment into National Socialist Germany's Government. This was consummated as a means to hinder any destructive effects emanating from Jews, as well as diminishing Jewish influence within National Socialist Germany's Government. In May 1935, Jews were forbidden from entering The Wehrmacht. However, this policy expired in May 3rd-9th 1943; since National Socialist Germany sought to accumulate Cannon Fodder, as a means to help them with triumphing in WWII. There were an estimated 150,000 Jews that were employed in The Wehrmacht as a result - in the aforementioned date. Some Jews within The Wehrmacht were immensely embraced within The Wehrmacht & German Culture, that they were oblivious and/or ignoring their Jewishness; viewing themselves as Germanics instead of ethnic-Jews.

On 15 September 1935, 'The Law of Nuremberg of Racial Purity' was established; forbidding miscegenation between Germans & non-Germans, including Jews. Half-Jews & Mischlinges (Quarter-Jews) were declared as non-citizens of National Socialist Germany. In 1936, Jews were forbidden from being employed into any professional career, e.g., doctoring, pedagogics. In 1937-1938, Germans & Jews were segregated from living in, and going to the same cities, towns, countrysides, schools, etc. On the 1st of March 1938, Governmental contracts were forbidden from being appointed to Jewish business. Ultimately, Jewish persecution coordinated by the German National Socialists, as well as the enacted courses of action consisting of emigration due to The Ha'avara Pact's implementation from 1933 to 1939 - more than 0.8% of Germany's Jews relinquished their residency from Germany.
